All images copyright © 1990-2025 Stampin' Up! ®

This project is created using three 4 oz jars that are stacked together - what a cute way to gift a cocoa treat!

You can change the fillings and character to create a jar for any time of the year - let your imagination go crazy! Happy Stamping and Creating!

Instructions:

1 - take three 4 oz jars and fill them - I used crushed peppermint, cocoa powder and mini marshmallows for a holiday themed stack - use a big blob of hot glue in the center of each lid to adhere one to another

2 - cut a strip of black cardstock to measure 10" x the depth of your jar lid band - mine was 1/2"

3 - wrap the strip around the lid and use very strong adhesive tape to secure the two ends together

4 - cut a circle to fit the top of the lid using a Circle Punch or Die - I used the largest die from Stylish Shapes Dies for mine - and use strong adhesive tape to glue it in place

5 - punch or die cut out circles for his eyes & mouth - I used dies from the Gingerbread Man Bundle - and cut out a nose - again I used a die from the same bundle for that - use glue dots to adhere them onto the top jar

6 - if you wish to make a brim for your hat you will need a set of nesting dies - choose the size you want the outer brim to be and use the larger die to cut out your circle - then select a die that will fit over your jar lid but won't slide past the little bump at the bottom of the lid - then cut another circle inside

Then you should be able to slide this over your jar lid and it should stay nicely in place!
